SurePlatform

Get started in minutes, not months

Biopharma and device companies seeking to accelerate therapeutic product delivery and enhance product quality today are frequently going digital. By substituting costly paper and manual processes in favor of modern automated digital systems, health science organizations are changing the way that projects and clinical trial studies are initiated, managed and completed.

Many legacy health science applications in use today were developed over 20 years ago on old, outdated platforms that can't meet business needs. Today's clinical trial knowledge workers expects smartphone based access to information in a centralized portal, digital signing and workflows, team collaboration and more in user friendly mobile-first platforms that support point of activity computing.

SurePlatform provides an easy to use, easy to learn mobile-first integrated suite of essential health science applications, network and workflow capabilities delivered on a modern cloud-based applications platform, all within an independently compliance validated FDA/EC cloud. With SureClinical's web portal, your clinical operations team gains a centralized 360 degree anytime, anywhere view of key clinical trial data, documents, medical images, analytics, reports and data.
